Amendment Proposal — “Stoppage Time” Endgame Pot (v1.2 draft)

Status: ADOPTED — Variant A (Stoppage Pot). Andreas 2026-07-17; Cal signed off in chat 2026-07-18, before 3rd Place Final kickoff. Airtable changes: `09_stoppage_pot_airtable_migration.md` + `scripts/setup_stoppage_pot.py`.

Two matches remain (FRA-ENG 3rd place, ESP-ARG Final). This proposes a ring-fenced side-pot covering all betting on those two fixtures — new outcome/exact betting (including the 3rd-place game, omitted from the original betting entirely), an expanded bonus-bet menu with wild types, and one fresh token each — converted at the end into a margin adjustment that can shrink the recorded winning gap to a single point or blow it out, but can never flip the winner.

Why a pot, not just more points

As of Jul 17 the main game stands Andreas 1563, Cal 1414, with Andreas holding a locked +60 (Total Tournament Goals: 280 vs 187 against an actual already at 297) → effective 1623 vs 1414. Still open in the main game: Cal’s Champion slot (ESP, +150), Andreas’s Golden Boot (Mbappé ×Double, +120), and bonus bets on the last two matches (≤35/match each).

Cal’s ceiling under current rules is $1414 + 150 + 70 = \mathbf{1634}$ — an 11-point live path that runs entirely through bonus-bet sweeps. Golden Glove is dead for both: Unai Simón has personally kept all 6 Spanish clean sheets (a World Cup record streak); Mañan maxes at 5, Martínez at 3.

So under current rules any added betting widens a still-live path and could upset the result — exactly what we don’t want. The fix: move all remaining per-match betting into a pot that scores the margin, not the winner.

Consequence of adoption (state it plainly): with final/3rd-place bonus bets moved out of the main game, Cal’s main-game ceiling becomes $1414 + 150 = \mathbf{1564} < \mathbf{1623}$. Signing this amendment formally decides the main game — Andreas is champion of record. What remains at stake:

Still resolving in the MAIN game	Effect on margin M
Champion slot (Cal: ESP)	−150 if Spain wins
Golden Boot (Andreas: Mbappé ×2)	+120 if Mbappé wins/shares (goals → assists → joint)
Total Tournament Goals (Andreas)	+60, already locked
Golden Glove	0 for both (Simón)

M therefore lands between 59 (Spain wins, Messi keeps the Boot) and 329 (Argentina wins, Mbappé takes it).

The pot

Every pot point is a normal point in every way — same values, same scoring order, same `int(round())` — it just accumulates in `stoppage_pot` per player instead of `total_score`. Any bonus bets already quietly placed on these two fixtures migrate to the pot at adoption.

Conversion (after the Final)

Let M = main-game margin after the legacy items resolve, N = (trailing player’s pot) − (leading player’s pot).

Recorded margin = $\max(1, M - N)$ if $N > 0$ · M + |N| if $N \leq 0$

- Trailing player sweeps → the archive shows a 1-point championship. Full consolation, maximum trash-talk asymmetry, zero effect on who won.
- Leading player sweeps → the blowout is certified and permanent.

Outcome betting (finally using the spec’s KO values)

Sealed until kickoff, like bonus bets — these are entered with the pairings known, so blind mutual entry preserves the co-participation-era spirit. Pundit Note strongly recommended.

Pick	Value
3rd place outcome / exact score	20 / +15
Final outcome / exact score after 90’	50 / +30
Beat-Rival bonus (per match, unchanged)	+3

Bonus bets: cap raised to 3/match, co-participation dropped

For these two fixtures only: up to 3 bonus bets per match, from the classic menu or the wild menu below, no co-participation gate. Rationale: the gate existed to stop carpet-bombing across 104 matches; with 2 fixtures, a hard cap, and a ring-fenced pot, it protects nothing — and dropping it removes the degenerate “clinch by abstention” line the current rules allow.

Wild menu (these two fixtures only)

Amended 2026-07-17 (agreed): rare-event bets are yes-only — a flat payout on a <25% event makes “No” nearly free points, and the Stoppage ×2 compounds it. You can back a rare event; you can’t fade one. VAR keeps its No side deliberately: same asymmetry grade as the classic Red card 20, which both players have bet (and won) all tournament. Extra time is a real yes/no on both fixtures — the 2026 regs give the 3rd-place game full extra time.

Bet	Value	Sides	Resolution
Extra time played	15	Yes / No	auto
Decided on penalties	25	Yes only	auto
Own goal in match	25	Yes only	auto
Substitute scores	15	Yes / No	auto (lineups + events)
Goal in 90’+ stoppage time (either half)	20	Yes / No	auto (minute.extra)
No second-half goals	25	Yes only	auto
5+ combined cards	15	Yes / No	auto
Hat-trick by any player	40	Yes only	auto
Keeper saves a penalty (in regulation)	30	Yes only	judged — API “Missed Penalty” doesn’t distinguish saved from off-target
VAR overturns a decision	20	Yes / No	judged — API VAR events are patchy

The Duel (cross-match special, one per player)

Messi vs Mbappé, goals across both remaining matches — pick Messi / Mbappé / Level: 25. The Golden Boot sweat, playable by both. Auto-resolvable.

Stoppage Token

Each player receives one fresh ×2 token, pot-only, attachable to any single pot prediction, locking and revealing at that prediction’s kickoff. The endgame deserves one last conviction signal; the main-game token economy stays untouched (all 7+7 spent).

Ceiling math

Per player: outcomes 121 (incl. rival bonuses) + bonus $3 \times \text{best} \approx 95/\text{match} \rightarrow 190$ + Duel 25 + token on the Final outcome +50 $\approx$ 385 max pot. A genuine sweep-vs-blank lands 150-250 of net N — enough to floor any realistic M at 1, or roughly double it. Tuned, not decorative.

Variant B — “Let it ride” (the chaos option)

No pot. All of the above scores straight into the main game. Cal’s miracle path widens from 11 to $\sim 11 + 121$ + extra bonus headroom — the Final actually decides the pool. Maximum stakes, but it abandons the stated goal that these bets can’t upset the result, and it makes adding the 3rd-place outcome betting a competitive act rather than a fun one. Included for honesty; not recommended.

	A — Stoppage Pot	B — Let it ride
Winner decided by	Main game (at adoption)	Possibly the last kick
New bets affect	Recorded margin only	Everything
Co-participation	Dropped (capped, ring-fenced)	Must keep (still load-bearing)
Consolation narrative	Margin $\rightarrow$ 1 pt	None — it’s just points
Engine work	stoppage_pot rollup or manual	KO outcome scoring path, live

Implementation note

Two fixtures, ≤ 10 predictions per player: manual scoring in Airtable is entirely adequate (a pot single-select on Predictions excluded from the total_score rollup, or a plain shared sheet). The KO outcome/exact scoring path exists in the engine but has never run in anger — don’t debut it with the pool on the line unless someone wants the test-writing as entertainment.

Changelog entry (if adopted)

- v1.2 (2026-07-18) — “Stoppage Time” endgame pot, agreed by both players. All betting on the 3rd Place Final and Final (outcome/exact per spec KO values, bonus bets at 3/match from an expanded menu, one pot-only $\times 2$ token each, the Duel special) scores into a ring-fenced per-player pot converted post-Final into a margin adjustment: $\max(1, M - N) / M + |N|$. Co-participation waived for these two fixtures. Main game consequently decided at adoption.
